Puerto De La Duquesa

Hugging the coastline of the Costa del Sol, in the region of Andalucía is this little piece of paradise. At the heart of this fast developing centre is a wonderful marina built with more than 300 berths. Along the waterfront is a wide variety of restaurants and bars, looking out over the marina. There are no high-rise hotels and the port has retained its charm and its quiet environment. The port is flanked by two very long sandy beaches, each with their own beach bars. One beach stretches to the left as far as Sabinillas and on to Estepona, whilst the other winds round the coast to Sotogrande.

Marina Sotogrande

Sotogrande lies at the far west of the Costa del Sol in Cádiz province. Home to the rich and famous who, for several decades were charmed by the natural quietness of the area and its stunning views, nestled amongst the cork forests that are part of the protected biosphere.

Sotogrande marina and its now world famous golf course is becoming increasingly popular amongst holiday makers who prefer the upmarket marina with its choice of bars and restaurants to other resorts on the Costa del Sol.
