There are three separate living accommodations on the plot surrounded by fruit trees. The first and largest two-storey house, located at the entrance of the property, comprises five bedrooms, three bathrooms, a living room, a spacious kitchen with a utility room, and a large roof terrace that overlooks the beautiful surroundings. private patio area.

The second house is located in a small garden area with a large almond tree and an arched covered porch. It has plenty of natural light and is surrounded by lemon and orange trees and a greenhouse.

The third and final house is at the rear of the finca and is a wooden house with a special charm. The front porch, large living room, and high ceilings add to its appeal. The bedrooms upstairs have been wrapped around the living room, and two large palm trees on either side of the house provide shade and privacy.

All three properties share three key features: they are located close to the popular town of Alhaurin de la Torre, the plot is flat, and there is potential for rental income. Additionally, the vibrant town has many fiestas, and there is a great selection of restaurants nearby.
